FEMALE CRANKS APPEAR AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, March 8.—"The queerest of the female cranks to visit the White House made her appearance hast week," said an employe of the White House. "She was a faded little, old woman. Her shoulders were shrouded in an old shawl and in the ends of this shawl si.a had swaddled up a little, very old, toofhless and half-blind Skye terrier." "Good morning, serie," said the little old."

saed little, old woman. Her shoulders were shrouded in an old shawl and in the ends of this shawl sie had swaddled up a little, very old, toofhless and half-blind Skye terrier.

"Good morning, serfs,' said the little old lady, smilling pleasantly at the doorkeepers and ushers. I'm Cleopatra, you know." "All hands mado Cleopatra a rever-ines and she undid the loose ends of the shawl swaddling the aged dog and showed her to them.

"I thought I'd leave poor little Charmion with Mrs. Roosevelt, you know,' said the little old woman, rather pathetically. I'm going to visit the tombs of my ancestors in the Pyramids shortly, and the Pyramids are so damp lately that I fear Charmion will take cold if I take her along with me. So I thought I would leave her with Mrs. Roosevelt while I'm gone,' and she gazed affectionately at the little old terrier and stroked its head.

"They told her that Mrs. Roosevelt was out of the city, and she went away with the decrepit terrier, saying that she would return later, but she did not come back.

"Another of the femule cranks who dailed at the White House soon after Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival was a middle-aged woman, none too well dressed, but very near, indiddy. When she got in she beckoned one of the ushers aside.

"Now, I wouldn't have you mention it for worlds, she said in a whisper, but how shall I arrange to send Mrs. Roosevelt some of my cast-off dresses without hurting her feelings."

"The usher at first had no idea that ler mind was wrong, but ducked at this and made some evasive reply."

"They tell me that the poor thing hasn't a single, solitary sitch fit to be seen,' went on the woman, gracious of avoirdupols with great satisfaction.

"All of my dresses,' she went on, before the usher could think of anything to say to her, were made by Worth and Feltx—law's me. How that poor Worth man has torn his hair and ground his teeth in thinking of new effects for my ball gowns! And, goodness gracious sakes alive, how Feltx has despaired of ever doing me justice!"

"Well might he, madam,

LADY ABBESS GETS SIX YEARS IN PRISON.

Feared Servant Would Divulge Court Secrets Which She Had Discovered and Tried to Poison Her.

Berlin, March &-A published dispatch from Munich announces that the Lady Ab-bess Elizabeth von Haussier of the Old Voman's Asylum, who was on trial for attempting to poison a servant girl, has been sentenced to six years' detention in a pen-

A dispatch received yesterday stated that, according to the testimony given at the trial, the servant girl, Emma Wagner, was for eight years the intimate friend and coufidants of the Abbess, who told her many alleged sianders against members of the Bayarian royal family.

A few weeks ago the Abbess and the servant quarreled and then, it was charged, the Abbess, fearing the girl would divulge the stories and injure her in court circles, poured murfaite acid into the girl's coffee, which made her violently ill.

IMPASSABLE ROADS CAUSE SHORTAGE OF ORE SUPPLY.

ar Famine Still Felt in Joplin District-lend and Zine Both

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Joplin, Mo., March 8.—Daily warm rains during the week caused the frost to come out of the ground and roads in parts of the mining district have been impessable for heavy wagonloads of ore, while in every part it has been impossible to haul more than half loads at any time during the week. This condition, a higher metal market and the continued car shortage all combined to create a greater demand for ore in easiest reach of the railroads.

Competition advanced the price 138 per ton for one lost, and another lot sold at $57.59 per ton, the assay basis in several instances being raised to $23.59 per ton for ore assaying 90 per cent sinc, while very little ore was loaded that sold on a basis less than $33 per ton. A few lots of ore were advanced $1 per ton, and the general advance amounted to 50 cents per ton.

A lack of sufficient cars for transporting the ore from the mines to the smelters has greatly depleted reserve stocks at the smelters, compelling the loading of ore on cattle cars and even on open coal cars.

The situation has become so acute that it is necessary for some of the purchasing agents to secure ore at almost any priocore that can be loaded, and on railroads that can supply the demand for cars. It is apparent from the fact that there are some $5.50 tons of ore in the bins of the producers throughout the district that the lack of cars and the mud had more to do with the higher prices than the steady advance in the metal market.

Spelter has gained 10 cents per hundred pounds in two weeks, and this is equivalent to the gain in ore prices.

A higher pig lead market brought a St. Louis smelter agent into the field for lead, but the ore has not yet been advanced, the selling price of the week being $11 per ton, the same as for two months, $111 higher prices for zinc are expected this week, and hopes are entertained that lead will follow.

Following are the sales of sinc and lead ores in pounds by the companies and individuals owning land or first leases in the various camps of the Joplin district for Joplin, Mo., March &-Dally warm rains during the week caused the frost to come

New York, March 8.—While there is more or less of a haze surrounding the mysterious steps that are being taken toward re-organizing the Gould system in the Southwest, a general idea of the ultimate pur-pose of those charged with perfecting the plans has been obtained.

It is evident that the centralization of It is evident that the centrelization of management is the primary purpose, and this is being slowly worked out. It would seem as if the Iron Mountain might become the holding company for all the roads except the Missouri Pacific. The various steps that have been taken point that way. It was stated positively that the plans for the readjustment of the affairs of the St. Louis Southwestern have been perfected and will be put into effect shortly.

and will be put into effect shortly.

They involve, so it is said, the retirement of the preferred stock by a 4-per-cent hand of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain and a possible increase in the common stock. There is a total of $29,000.00 of common stock. If the preferred stock chould be retired and no increase made in the amount of common stock, it would be necessary to hold only $8,500.00 of the common stock to keep control of the property, and the bonds received in exchange for the preferred stock could be disposed of at the best prices obtainable.

nearly wrested from the present management by a certain capitalist now actively

That could not be done now, but the retirement of the preferred mock would be

RAILROAD IN PREDICAMENT. Frequent Landalides Spoil Farm and Prequent Landslides Spoil Farm and Cover Tracks.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Vincennes, Ind., March 3.—The Baltimore and Ohio Bouthwestern Railroad Company has its best engineers trying to solve the problem of stopping an immense landslide that has been coming down on its main tracks for several weeks and is continually growing more threatening at Fritchton. Ind., where the company recently made a long and deep out whereby the track was shortened two miles.

A mountain of clay four scree in extent and 150 feet high has broken loose from the Wampler farm, and carrying trees and poles along is coming down on the track and has left a breach 800 feet wide between the silde and the Wampler farm. It is one of the most remarkable as well as expensive freaks ever encountered by a railroad. A steam ditcher and force of twenty-five men are kept busy night and day removing the clay from the main track, which is hauled on flat cars to Lawrenceville, Ill., and used for embankment porposes. Trains have to slow up on reaching Fritchton, and often wait until trees and other rubbish besides the clay are cleared from the track, as the mountain of earth now stands squarely against the track, almost imperceptibly coming upon it. The company is puzzled as to what to do in the matter in a legal-way.

The farmer who owns the land has threatened to bring suit against the company, for despolling his land, while the railroad ways it is the one to proceed and sue the owner of the land for obstructing its right of way.

Announcement of Purchase to Be Made Next Week.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, March 8—In the development of the greater Pere Marquette Railroad, now dominated by St. Louis capitalists, negotiations have been practically closed for the purchase of two of the smaller unstached railroads of Michigan. These roads tached railroads of Michigan. These roads are the South Haven and Eastern, running from South Haven to Lawton; the Milwaukee, Benton Harbor and Colema, connecting Benton Harbor and Paw Paw Lake.

Announcement of the purchase of these roads probably will be made next week. It is not likely that control of the new acquisitions will be taken before April 1.

Significance of this purchase lies in the fact that a portion of the South Haven and Eastern will be used as the besis for a cut-off, which, when completed, will give the Pere Marquette a very direct line between Chicago and Detroit, and, with the building of the Eastern extension to Buffalo, a line between this city and Chicago, which will be in tavorable position to compete with existing lines for through traffic.

Frisco Wanta Line to the Seaboard.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, March &—In connection with the interest of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the plans of the Yoakum-Pierce-Campbell syndicate in the Frisco, it is suggested that the Georgia Central road might be turned over to the Prisco by the Southern Reilway in order to carry the Frisco to the South Atlantic seaboard.

These plans have been announced from time to time as cumulative evidence of the importance of the Frisco plans in the Southwestern railroad situation and its intention of reaching the Atlantic at all hazards.

Wall street has read the reports with a view to the future, but when it was suggested two weeks ago that the Rock Island Company would undertake to carry out all of these plans and take advantage of them the report was considered surprising, at least.

Says That American Methods Are Un-Colonel A. H. Yorke, chief inspecting offi-cer of the Board of Railways of the London Board of Trade, in his report on American railways, which he has recently investi-gated, says that American methods are ex-pensive chiefly because the expense of Eng-lish roads in adopting them would nullfy the advantages.

lish roads in adopting them would nullly ing advantages.

In regard to the automatic and other me-chanical devices used on American systems, Colonel Yorke claims that the gain is coun-terbalanced by the additional risk to em-ployes and parsongers because of the dan-ger of these devices getting out of order.

"JACK THE SLUGGER" IS DEAD.

Accused Negro Was Overcome by Nervous Exhaustion.

Cambridge, Mass., March & George L. O. Perry, the negro lad indicted for the murders of Agnes McPhee at Somerville and Clara Morton at Waverly, commonly referred to as the "Jack the slugger" cases, died at the Cambridge Jall to-day from nervous exhaustion.

Perry survived an attack of typhoid fever, and death is announced to have resulted indirectly from worry, which prevented a complete physical restoration from the weakened condition in which the fever left him.

Though he was told on Friday that his end was near, it is not known that Perry made any formal statement, and it is belaved that he protested lifs innocence to the last. Sheriff Fairbairy to-night refused to say anything regarding the prisoner's last hours, beyond the remark that he considered the case closed.

This is interpreted by some to mean that the Sheriff had reason to think that the murder case ended with the death of the lad.

Cumberland, Md., March & Six persons were burned to death and one was fatally injured as the result of a fire this morning in a small hotel at Leiter, a mining town near Eikins. W. Va. The dead: Maggie Coughian, Annie Burke, Henry Burke, Geo. C. Anderson, Mrs. Geo. G. Anderson, a child of the Andersons. Fatally injured: Robert Long. cons from the bond of A. C. Bird when he was Postmaster at Pana, Ill., because they disagreed with his manner of business, is in a degree responsible for his now being traffic manager of the Gould system, and United States.

Portmaster, Mr. Bird might now be a high into the railroad business, and he secured a minor position in an office in one of the roads running into St. Louis. From that point he has worked up to his present po-point he has worked up to his present position.

The Post-Office incident referred to happened several years ago, when the traffic manager was beginning his business career.
His father and grandrather were Presbyterian ministers. Bird was working in the office of the old St. Louis and Alton road.

The sainry he received as assistant agent was so small that he was unable to support himself and wife. He cast about for a more lucrative position, and through the efforts of friends was appointed Postmaster at Pana. Ilis bondsmen were deacons of the church and others who had helped to secure his appointment.

BEGAN CHANGING PLANS.

On entering upon the duties of his office, he found things run in what he considered an "old-fgy" manner, and at once set about changing and improving the matters in the Post Office. Not long after he had, taken hold he found that his friends, the deacons, wanted a voice in the management of affairs and he was unwilling to let them have their way.

Bird intimated that he was the Postmaster and intended placing the office on an up-to-date basis. The result was that his bondsmen were dissatisfied and withdrew from his bond. He then resigned his position and came to St. Louis, where he entered a railroad office.

It was not long before he became a man of prominence in local railroad circles. Then

AS AN INVENTOR.

Bird is the inventor of the tin seal for freight cars, which has saved many thousands of dollars to railroad companies. He invented this wifile working in St. Louis. He also invented a system of tracers for following up lost freight. The tracer is a book of stubs which is sent to agents along the road. One each stub is a blank describing the missing freight.

Each agent was obliged to fill out the blank and return it to the central office, then forward the stub to the next point on the road. This takes the place of a man and excellent results were obtained.

A striking feature of Mr. Bird's personality is his power of predominating wherever he may be. At meetings of traffic menagers attended by Mr. Bird his influence was always strongly felt. Frequently he has held the chair in the assemblies, but even when simply a delegate he was much upon the floor, and his arguments were of such a convincing kind that everything carried before them.

GOOD STORIES FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, March 8.—Two very young lads from Nebraska were taken to the White House the other day in order that their proud parents might relate in after years how their offspring had shaken hands with the President of the United States.

Their experiences began at the entrance and a fair list of passengers. All the local performance in the president of the United States. iads from Nebraska were taken to the White House the other day in order that their proud parents might relate in after years how their offspring had shaken hands

Their experiences began at the chirance to the grounds. After that they had a confused idea of what happened,
The boys were questioned about the visit that same afternoon.
"And did you shake hands with the President?" the youngest was asked.
"I don't know," he replied, "but I shook hands with that big policeman at the gate."

Senator Gorman and Senator Frye are very close friends. During all the time Mr. Gorman was in the Senate, he and Mr. Frye had a standing pair and each has voted exactly as he wanted to in the absence of the other, except on matters of politics. It is called "an elastic pair." "Gorman," explained Mr. Frye to the Maryland Senator the day the extraordinary session began, "Gorman, I want out or remember that that elastic pair of ours is on again." "All right," replied Mr. Gorman, "but you must not complain if in these pping times of war that pair gets stretched so far that it breaks."

The impression prevails rather generally through the country that Senator Gorman is a Roman Catholic. On the contrary, he is a Presbyterian and a member of the Masonic fraternity. His two daughters married Catholics, the ceremony in each instance being performed by Cardinal Gibbons.

The statue craze has struck Washington in deadly earnest again. It seems to date this time from a dedication of the Rochambeau statue a little less than a year ago. The statue of Frederick the Great is perplexing politicians on both sides of the Atlantic, and this gift of the German Emperor is to be dedicated about a year from now. There is likely to be a very litter sectional dispute over the proposition of Virginia to place a statue of General R. E. Lee in the Capitol. The statues of General Grant and General Sherman are coming along rapidly. No statue of General Sheridan has yet been provided. The new statues to be added to Statuary Hall this year were those of Charles Carroll of Carrollton and John Hanson, both Marylanders. The last Congress provided for monuments to Count Pulaski and Baron Steuben. It falled to provide for a monument to John Paul Jones; it also falled to provide for monuments to more recent naval heroes. Rear Admiral Sampson and Captain Gridley.

When Senator Tilimen threatened to talk the naval and deficiency bills to death in order to force his South Carolina claim he sent for copies of Byron to read till final adjournment.

"Got your Byron ready for the Crum case?" asked a friend yesterday.
"Oh. no," was the quick reply. "I've got Othello for Crum."

Just after Senator Quay had to acknowled

Just after Senator Quay had to acknowledge defeat in his fight for the omnibus statehood bill, he said:

"Well, there are some compensations. I don't set my statehood bill. Aldrich won't get his currency bill. Hanna won't get his ranged bill. Hanna won't get his rearrency bill. Hanna won't get his ranged won't get their Cubsn treaty. All these members of the Senate, who have had so much fun with me, will have to stay here for an extra session. As for me, I'm going to Florida the day after Congress ends, and there I shall stay for the rest of the spring."

Sure enough about the time on Thursday that the Senators were on their way to the Capitol to begin the extra session of Congress. Senator Quuy and his family were being whirled down Pennsylvania avenues to the railroad station in a closed carriage. And on the driver's seat was a tarpon rod.

Robert B. Armstrong, Assistant Secre-

ne was enusive in his thanks to Mr. Armstrong.

"I am deeply grateful, Mr. Secretary," he remarked, "and I hope I can repay this favor at some time in the future."

"Oh, never mind about that," replied Mr. Armstrong. "I believe in passing these things along. People have helped me and now, I'm glad to be able to help you. So when you get an opportunity just help

During those eventful two hours of the last night session of the Senate, when Tillman sat behind a barricade of books and documents threatening to force an extrassession of Congress and "Uncle Joe" Camon paced the floor of Senator Allison's committee room emphatically denouncing everybody, especially United States Senators, Senator O. H. Platt had his little joke. Senator Bacon had obtained unanimous consent to mass a little bill appropriating. 100 to recompense a Georgia livery stable-keeper for the loss of a horse shot by United States revenue officers.

"Mr. President," said Senator Platt, "ist us have the report read."

Thereupon the clerk occupied haif an hour of the midnight watches reading the long report. It was full of particulars as to the character and value of the horse and the manner of the killing. It also went into a detailed description of how another horse was shot through the ear. The whole Senate was convulsed with laughter and the sleepers in the galleries awoke.

Afterward the Senato passed the 110 horse bill, while two important treaties, a great financa? bill and the Philippine tariff bill were not allowed to come to a vote, and two great supply bills appropriating ever 100,000,000 were held back.
